LEGACY 2014
XX COMMONWEALTH GAMES
SCOTLAND

It's not just about elite athletes.

It's about using the unique opportunity of the Glasgow 2014 Commonwealth Games to deliver lasting change across the whole of Scotland.

From Papa Westray to Portpatrick, from Tranent to Tarbert, Legacy 2014 activity will bring social, economic and cultural benefits far beyond 2014.

We want businesses to flourish; people to be more active; school children to understand their place in the world; young people to take up new skills and training; sports people to improve their performance and much more.

We want to create a more Flourishing, Active, Connected, and Sustainable Scotland. And through a host of Legacy 2014 programmes we will achieve it.

Legacy 2014 has something for everyone. Make sure you're part of it.

Flourishing

Programme

Building business capacity and awareness

Working with Scotland's business community to raise awareness and capacity to compete for the many opportunities generated by major events in Scotland, in the run up to the Glasgow 2014 Games and beyond.

International business profile

Using the Games and other major events to showcase Scotland's goods and services, and to build strong relationships with international markets. Improving Scotland's reputation as an excellent place to do business.

2014 Food and Drink

Offering a range of activity capitalising on the year of 2014 to showcase Scotland's outstanding produce to the world.

Legacy 2014 Scotland's Best programme

An employability programme combining volunteering opportunities and accredited training for 16-24 year olds who have found it difficult to get into work. Many of the volunteering opportunities tap into sporting and cultural events that Scotland is hosting between 2013 and 2015.

Legacy 2014 Employer Recruitment Incentive

Supporting over 1,500 Employer Recruitment Incentive (ERI) payments to employers. Delivered by Skills Development Scotland, the £1,500 ERI payments help employers take on a 16-19 year old in a sports or events-related modern apprenticeship.

Outcome

Support Scottish businesses to tender successfully for Games contracts and increase their capacity to compete successfully in domestic and international markets.

Use the Games as a platform to help accelerate the internationalisation and growth of Scottish businesses.

Maximise the opportunities and benefits for Scotland's food sector, and boosting the country's reputation as a Land of Food and Drink.

Enable up to 1,000 young people to find volunteering opportunities in sports and cultural events. Increasing their general employability and opening up further employment or training opportunities.

Help 1,550 young people gain valuable training and employment experience by supporting employers.

Flourishing

Programme

Glasgow 2014 Employment

Through the Glasgow 2014 Games, thousands of employment and training opportunities were offered through the Glasgow 2014 Organising Committee, Games Sponsors, Games suppliers and service providers.

Legacy 2014 ScotGap

Provided security training and licences for Further and Higher Education students across Scotland. Helped thousands of students gain access to the security jobs required to deliver the Glasgow 2014 Games.

Host Broadcaster Training Initiative

Provided hands-on training in live broadcast, creative production and technology skills to up to 600 students across Scotland, and gave up to 200 Games-time experience.

BP Young Leaders programme

Supporting 65 disadvantaged young people over 18 months through a number of projects in their local communities, serving as a springboard to employment, education or training.

Volunteering 2014

12,500 Clyde-siders were recruited and trained by the Glasgow 2014 Organising Committee and helped ensure the 2014 Games were the best games ever.

Encouraging all 50,000 volunteer applicants to use their enthusiasm to consider wider volunteering opportunities.

Outcome

Help more people into employment having gained vital experience in delivering a major event in Scotland.

Thousands of students across Scotland successfully achieved industry recognised door supervisor and stewarding qualifications, allowing them to work within the security sector going forward.

Up to 600 students across Scotland given meaningful hands on training in live sport and outside broadcast production.

65 disadvantaged young people from Aberdeen, Edinburgh, the Shetland Islands and Glasgow will obtain recognised qualifications.

Help to develop an experienced and skilled volunteering workforce with access to local and national opportunities, and increased movement into employment, training and volunteering.
